PHW31/2019 Matt Jukes, Chief Constable, South Wales Police

JW extended a warm welcome to Matt Jukes, Chief Constable, South Wales Police who had agreed to present to the Board on the partnership working between Public Health Wales, South Wales Police and the policing and criminal justice community more widely in Wales.

MJ began by commenting on the all Wales partnership working, the benefits being accrued from the Early Action Together programme and the opportunities presented by the Home Office sponsored work around violence prevention and reduction.

MJ added his reflections on the effectiveness of the partnership approach around civil contingencies, local resilience and the preparations for leaving the European Union.

MJ advised that the ACE agenda had supported policing in Wales in shifting its focus onto prevention. A large part of this shift had concentrated on sensitising the policing and support workforce to individual and community vulnerability. He highlighted the following examples:

- A move from asking 'what is wrong with you' to 'what has happened to you'.
- A pilot programme looking at early help and support through bringing together the police, health and education professionals on a face to face basis, via face-to-face meetings rather than through the submission of referral forms
- Compassion from those attending sexual violence incidents that had led to South Wales Police being the least complained about force in Wales.
- Improvement in staff sickness absence rates, in particular absence related to mental ill health.

MJ concluded by explaining the challenges and areas for focus in the future. He described the complexities of navigating the health and social care system and the opportunities available to improve public health approaches across health and social care. He also referenced the benefits of learning from Scandinavia and other small nations.

Members discussed the common themes in tackling inequalities and deprivation; using a multi case conference approach to build on the successes of the ACE hub to support the creation of an ACE informed nation; the ways that Building a Healthier Wales could be an appropriate vehicle to tackle substance misuse in Wales and the potential for an MOU with the whole criminal justice system to support this; and the support that Public Health Wales could provide to engage further with health visitors, school nurses and midwives.

TC explained that she would be presenting a paper from the Building a Healthier Wales group to the NHS Wales Executive Board, describing the shift of prevention by partners to achieve more value for money. She agreed to share this with MJ.

Action: TC

The Board thanked MJ for his thoughts and reflections and reinforced its commitment to enhancing further the public health approach to policing and criminal justice, in partnership with the four Police and Crime Commissioners and the police forces in Wales.
