The Human Rights Act contains 15 rights, all of which NHS organisations have a duty to act compatibly with and to respect, protect and fulfil. The 6 rights that are particularly relevant to healthcare are listed below. For a fuller explanation of these rights and other rights in the Human Rights Act please refer to Appendix A: The Legislative Framework.

Depending on the Policy you are considering, you may find the examples below helpful in relation to the Articles.

|   | Yes  | No |
|---|--|----|
| Consider, is the Policy relevant to:  |  |    |
| Article 2: The right to life  Examples: The protection and promotion of the safety and welfare of patients and staff; issues of patient restraint and control | By contributing to a positive working environment, with the best possible working conditions for our staff, this policy helps enable them to deliver the highest standards of patient care       |    |
| Article 3 : The right not be tortured or treated in an inhuman or degrading way  Examples: Issues of dignity  | Issues of dignity and respect (by tackling the idea of menopause being a taboo subject and encouraging our workforce to talk openly about their experiences and offering support as appropriate) |    |
| and privacy; the protection and promotion of the safety and welfare of patients and staff;  |  |    |

| the treatment of vulnerable groups or groups that may experience social exclusion, for example, gypsies and travellers; Issues of patient restraint and control                            |   |  |
|--|---|--|
| Examples: Issues of patient choice, control, empowerment and independence; issues of patient restraint and control   | By recognising that experiencing the menopause can effect an individuals confidence and by enabling our staff to speak out about the experiences and providing appropriate support we seek to empower them  |  |
| Article 6: The right to a fair trial  Example: issues of patient choice, control, empowerment and independence   | This policy is relevant as it recognises that menopause can have an impact on e.g. concerntration and may therefore be a mitigating factor when there are issues around performance and capability  |  |
| Article 8: The right to respect for private and family life, home and correspondence; Issues of patient restraint and control  Examples: Issues of dignity and privacy; the protection and | Impact on family life – for example individuals can be indirectly affected by the menopause e.g. if their partner is experiencing insomnia and night sweats they may also experience disrupted sleep and fatigue or if their partner experiences significant physical or psychological symptoms (such as depression) they may be concerned for her wellbeing and feel increased levels of stress. In some cases people can experience relationship problems or difficulties at home at this time. |  |
| promotion of the safety and welfare of patients and staff; the treatment of vulnerable   | Issues of dignity and privacy, for example, confidentiality issues if an individual does not want colleagues to know that they are experiencing the menopause or that it is affecting them in a particular way. There may also  |  |
